Two Okanagan Men Sent To Lebanon By UN

Two Okanagan men are among a group of 51 officers and non-commissioned officers appointed to the United Nations service in Lebanon. They are, Capt. Peter DeWolf, 33, of Vernon, and Capt. John J. Fitzgibbon, 38, of Kelowna.

The first members of this latest group left today from Montreal by commercial airline. Other men will follow next week.

The latest appointments bring the total number of Canadians posted to Lebanon to 76, with one medical officer still to be named. Capt. Fitzgibbon was formerly a major in the B.C. Dragoons, and worked for some years at the S. M. Simpson mill.

After he joined the regular army in 1952, he and his family moved to Eastern Canada, and following that, he was posted to Germany, where he was stationed until his recent appointment to Lebanon.

BRITISH COLUMBIA ROUNDUP

ZOOKEEPER ACQUITTED

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — German-born zookeeper Paul Hertel was absolved of blame Friday in the death of eight-year-old Maureen Vanstone, killed when a lioness escaped from Hertel's zoo last May 2.

An assize court jury returned a verdict of not guilty on a charge of criminal negligence after hearing evidence during a three-day trial here.

Little Maureen was clawed to death by a full-grown lioness, Fury, as she walked along a road near here.

The lioness was shot the same day by a posse.

KITIMAT MAN SENTENCED

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — Orrin Kenneth Douglas, 23, of Kitimat, B.C., who ended a love triangle involving his wife by shooting a man he described as his "best friend," was sentenced Friday to 4½ years imprisonment on a reduced charge of manslaughter. Mr. Justice Harry Brown passed sentence immediately, commenting that he didn't know "whether proper justice would be done."

The young plumber's helper admitted the shotgun slaying last June 15 of his neighbor, Reginald Sinclair Young, 27, after Young had declared his love for Douglas's wife and told Douglas he "wasn't man enough" to do anything about it.

The jury took only 26 minutes to reach its verdict, after a four-day trial.

PREMIER OPENS PLANT

COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP) — Premier Bennett presided Friday at the opening of a $3,000,000 plant for Crane Ltd. and its subsidiary, Canadian Pottery Ltd., in this Vancouver suburb.

NEED MORE SCOUTS

VICTORIA (CP) — Canada now has more than 250,000 boy scouts but the number of new recruits is not keeping pace with the increasing population, Fred J. Finlay of Ottawa, chief executive commissioner of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada, said here.

Strike Having Effect On Northern Ontario

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Hundreds of idle workers were piling up in the woods of the Sudbury district Friday as a strike over wage demands of 14,000 workers at the Inco plant here.

Industry observers say if the strike drags on there will be other ramifications. Inco's seven mines are among the largest consumers of lumber in Canada. The company maintains its own sawmill and lumber camps and buys large quantities of timber, used to shore up underground tunneling, from many parts of the north.

More than 50 small supply firms stand to lose their best customer. The removal of Inco's $1,500,000 weekly payroll will affect all types of consumer supply businesses in the district.

"If YOU WANT to get that hour of sleep lost when daylight time came into effect last April 27, better turn your clocks back an hour before retiring tonight," says Rose Baran, pretty Kelowna high school student, who has right idea, and to make doubly sure she doesn't forget, has tied string around her finger. Fast time ends all over B.C. officially at 2 a.m. tomorrow, but it has been found more practical to move clocks BACK ONE HOUR at bedtime. —(Courier staff photo)

Turn Clocks Back One Hour When You Retire

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Clocks and watches will be returned to standard time this weekend in Newfoundland, British Columbia, Greater Winnipeg and the New Brunswick town of Campbellton.

Most of the other provinces which advanced clocks one hour to daylight time last spring will leave them there until Oct. 26, the last Sunday in the month.

Prince Edward Island and Alberta remain on standard time all year. Saskatchewan now stays with a standard time but changes time zones with the same effect as switching to daylight time.

MIDNIGHT SATURDAY

A Canadian Press survey shows that Newfoundland and British Columbia will put clocks back one hour at midnight Saturday. So will the Greater Winnipeg area — only part of Manitoba which this year went on daylight time.

Quebec reverts to standard time Oct. 26. Most of Ontario returns the same date.

All of Nova Scotia changes at midnight Oct. 25 and New Brunswick changes Oct. 26.

Saskatchewan, which changed to Central Standard for the summer, will go on Mountain Standard Time for the winter.

Previously, part of the province was in a Central time zone and part in a Mountain zone and smaller centres had the option of remaining on standard instead of daylight time. The legislature passed a bill last session to end the confusion. But there is no penalty for centres not conforming to the legislation and the southeastern city of Estevan says it will remain on Central Standard for the winter. It doesn't intend to change to Mountain time.

B.C.'s Public Works Program Under Study

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. of the Trans-Canada Highway Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher's proposal for a $61,036,000 federal-provincial public works program is being thoroughly investigated by the federal government, Works Minister Howard Green said Friday night.

"We haven't replied yet," said Mr. Green. "But we're limited in what we can do by the terms of the agreement."

Driver Escapes From Drowning

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ronald Vaughan, 31, escaped from the cabin of his truck 50 feet below the surface of Burrard Inlet here Friday, and swam to safety. Vaughan told police he was passing another truck on the causeway at the foot of Princess. Suddenly his vehicle slid sideways into the water.

Satellite Burns Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department said today the navy Vanguard satellite launched Friday did not go into orbit and burned up flying in the earth's atmosphere.

A brief announcement said: "The Vanguard IGY (International Geophysical Year) satellite vehicle launched yesterday failed to achieve an altitude or velocity adequate to place it in its projected orbit."

"After one or at most a limited number of passes around the earth at very low altitudes, the vehicle re-entered the earth's atmosphere and was consumed by friction."

UK Labor Party Ready To Bury Internal Feuds

By FRASER WIGHTON

SCARBOROUGH, England (Reuters) — Labor party leaders have planned an all-out drive to bury internal feuds in preparation for a general election they believe the government will call within a year.

The opening of the Labor party's annual delegate conference in this Yorkshire seaside resort Monday coincides with the start of a "tell the people" tour by Conservative Prime Minister Macmillan.

The government lead shown by public opinion polls suggests that the Conservatives called an election now they would be returned to power for a third term. NO MOOD FOR SQUABBLES Labor's leaders therefore are in the mood to ignore internal party troubles.

India May Intervene In Formosa

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — India's V. K. Krishna Menon has been sounding out delegates from both sides of the Iron Curtain with a plan to break the Formosa deadlock.

Informants said Menon wants to make the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu a no-man's land while a political settlement is sought for Formosa.

The Chinese Nationalists would pull their armed forces from the islands, while the Red Chinese would promise not to attempt any landings during negotiations.

The Indians are understood to feel that next Tuesday — when talks between U.S. and Communist Chinese ambassadors resume in Warsaw — will be the critical stage in the bargaining sessions between the two powers.

The United States has indicated that if the Warsaw talks break down it will toss the issue before the General Council or the Security Council.

Death Toll Mounting; Rice Paddies Ruined

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS)

National police reported 241 dead from the typhoon's winds and floods, 1,270 missing and 542,548 homeless.

Almost 500,000 houses were flooded and 30,000 acres of rice paddies ruined.

The known casualty toll was expected to rise as communications with the disaster areas were restored.

Half a dozen villages on the Izu Peninsula 70 miles below Tokyo were struck by 100-mile-an-hour winds and raging floods. Newspaper reports said 80 bodies were recovered from the Kano River and 600 were missing. Police confirmed at least 38 killed in that area.

Entire families were reported buried alive in landslides.

In Tokyo, drenched by a record 13½-inch rainfall, police said 23 persons were killed and 14 missing. Four were electrocuted by broken power lines.

Firemen, troops and volunteer rescue crews were sent from Mishima and Numazu to the Izu Peninsula. Tokyo's police and firemen worked around the clock and troops were mobilized to mop up damage.

IDA HEADS NORTH

Skies over the city were sunny this afternoon as Ida, classified as one of the worst ever to approach the island nation, headed north. The weather bureau said the typhoon may hit Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island, tonight.

Medical teams were organized in seven major hospitals and 13 health centres, and tetanus vaccine was prepared for 180,000 shots. The water bureau issued a warning that city reservoirs may have been contaminated by flood waters.

18 BOATS SUNK

The coast guard reported 18 vessels sank at the height of the typhoon, and eight more were swept away to sea. Twenty-six seamen were listed among the missing.

Japan's rail traffic was still tangled by flood damage. The storm collapsed some houses in Tokyo, crumbled part of the Imperial Palace wall and left thousands of stranded commuters wading waist deep in streets lined with abandoned cars.

The Imperial Palace moat overflowed and a police crew was sent to catch the escaped royal fish-carp.

Some 50,000 householders sought refuge in schools and public buildings.

Tropical Storm Hits Carolinas

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — The most vicious tropical storm in years swirled toward the vacation coastline of the Carolinas early today.

With 125-mile winds churning the sea to fury, Hurricane Helene threatened the entire coastline of the two states with destructive winds and even more destructive tides.

The U.S. weather bureau made clear early that Helene was an extremely dangerous storm. It warned that storm tides would be 10 feet higher than normal — perhaps higher in some places.

With the marks of 1954's Hazel and 1955's Connie, Diane and Ione still visible in some place, beach residents took the warning seriously.

In some communities evacuation was mandatory. In others only a handful of property owners stayed in the exposed areas.

DAMAGE MOUNTS BUT NO DEATHS

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Winds of hurricane Helene howled ashore in southeastern North Carolina late this morning at speeds above 100 miles an hour.

First reports told of mounting damage but no deaths.

City docks at Southport, about 30 miles south of Wilmington, were washed away, the weather bureau said.

Vernon's Mayor To Take Power Fight To Gov't

NANAIMO (CP) — Mayor Frank Becker of Vernon plans to carry interior British Columbia's battle for cheaper hydro power to the provincial cabinet.

His decision followed refusal of the Union of B.C. Municipalities to discuss at its annual convention here a resolution asking the government to expropriate B.C. Electric's power production and distribution system and give it to the publicly owned B.C. Power Commission.

The conference Friday refused to debate any resolutions except the 60 that were on the agenda.

Mayor Becker said he will ask Vernon city council and the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association to place the demand before Premier Bennett when his cabinet meets in Vernon Oct. 7.

"We want an immediate start on developing the tremendous Columbia River power sites," he said.

Mayor Becker said only big developments can produce cheap power. The Grand Coulee development on the lower Columbia in Washington produces at less than one-tenth of a cent per kilowatt hour and the Canadian development would be even bigger.

"That power could be fed through the interior," he said. "It would attract industry and revive agriculture."

eral manager H. L. Briggs told the conference Wednesday people served by the commission were paying more than they should to subsidize rural electrification programs.

"The commission is owned by the people of B.C. and rural electrification should be paid for out of general revenue," Mayor Becker said.

Small private utilities are selling cheaper, he said. West Kootenay Light and Power sells power in bulk to cities like Kelowna and Penticton, but serves only a few concentrated rural areas.

The power is retailed by the cities at lower cost than B.C. Power Commission gives its customers. Yet last year Kelowna made a net profit of $130,000 and Penticton $250,000 from power sales.

"The reason is that the West Kootenay company has taken the cream and its customers don't have to subsidize costly rural lines," he said.

Education Needs Give More Than How To Earn A Living

This week as host city, Kelowna has been privileged to entertain some 700 members of the school boards of this province, who gathered here to discuss their mutual problems, of which they have many. It was natural that the business sessions of the conventions were primarily concerned with the educational plant, the teacher structure and all the other details which must be attended to in the operation of the school system, including, of course, the costs which are one of the primary concerns of the trustees.

Nevertheless, while the details of operation consume much of the time of the trustees, inevitably they must be concerned, too, with the purpose of education and the direction in which the system is going.

It has been apparent in the modern world that the rights of the individual, while inalienable, can only have real meaning when his obligations also are fulfilled. Young by comparison with older countries in the world, Canada is still reaching for that maturity of thought and deed which one day will be the projection of its own national consciousness. No merely mechanical concept of life will suffice for the sturdy, independent and basically self-reliant spirit of a people who took over a great wilderness and carved from it a diversified and on most counts abundant living. There has not been much time yet to widen thinking on a national plane to include some of the philosophical benefits through which human contentment comes.

That is not to say—nor do we believe—that Canadian thinking is by any means confined to a mechanistic concept of life. Far from it, as the growing body of literature and other arts has proved. It is more a question of emphasis. No state of comfort, no wealth of possessions can fill an otherwise empty life. That requires inner resources of the individual far removed from the market place: the products of reflection, maturity of mind, assumption of personal responsibility, and the wit to see that happiness very truly comes from within and cannot be pinned on as an appendage.

As time lengthens Canada's roster of years there must be ahead for every citizen of this country not merely the mechanics of a sustaining way of life, but all the rounded out spiritual, ethical and philosophical values as well. In this the emphasis is not on what the individual has, but essentially on what he is. Everyone in this country respects the man or woman who works at a job. It is expected of all regardless of station or years that they will be self-energizing and able to cope with the normal ups and downs of life. The latter-day knowledge of science, engineering and the like is a reinforcement of human assets only so long as there is a companion growth on the spiritual side. In the end, all knowledge is only the crude ore from which mankind may with patience extract a little wisdom.

Hazardous Courtship

One of the most interesting political developments in Canada at the present time is the courtship of the Canadian Labor Congress and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Membership of the labor unions being what it is, one wonders how a marriage of convenience as now proposed could ever be arranged to the satisfaction of the numerous step-children; and also who, in the slang expression applied to domestic relationships, would wear the pants in the family.

The labor unions of this country are made up of men and women not of one political persuasion but of all. There are among them Conservatives, Liberals, Social Crediters, CCFers, doctrinaire socialists and even—sad to relate—a few Communists. Because no one is under any obligation to disclose his political beliefs and affiliations if he chooses not to, there is no way of estimating with any degree of accuracy the respective strengths of the various existing parties within the ranks of organized labor.

It could very well be, though, that those opposed to CCF policy outnumber those supporting it or willing to do so. If this strange alliance should be brought off, therefore, how would the anti-CCF trade unionists feel about being dragged into it against their principles? How would loyal Conservatives, Liberals and others feel about paying a portion of their union or guild dues into the coffers of a new political party under the label of "Labor"? How could they conscientiously support with their voices and votes the principles of the party of personal political choice while supplying the funds for another?

The eagerness of the CCF for matrimony can be understood. For all its courage and perseverance the party has been unable to get anywhere, and its representation in Parliament has dwindled to insignificance. In the hope of changing its fortunes the CCF apparently is now willing to sink its identity and throw in its lot with the giant of organized labor. That, one may safely predict, would be the end of a brave group born of hardship and the distress of the depression years; and of the hopes and aspirations of the many fine men and women who have remained loyal to it in the good times which are the bad times for the CCF.

The alliance could be equally disastrous for the CLC. Notwithstanding the resolution of the national convention in favor of an adventure into politics as a united party it is extremely doubtful that unity in this connection exists among the rank and file. Because of closed and union shop agreements men and women are virtually compelled to belong to unions, though in many instances that may not do violence to conscience so long as their activities are confined to matters relating to working conditions. Compulsory membership in a political party is a vastly different thing, and any attempt to enforce it might very well split the CLC, just as homes have been broken up by parental domination in matters relating to personal beliefs.—The Victoria Columnist

Violation Of Tariff, Trade Agreement Topic At Parley

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

MONTREAL (CP) — Violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — commonly known as GATT — is the substance of the charge thrown at the United States for the quotas she has put on the importation of lead and zinc.

The protests—as expressed by Canadian, Australian and United Kingdom representatives attending the Commonwealth trade and economic conference—include some particular national objections. But the substance behind the protests is the alleged breach of GATT.

The pertinent part of GATT, Article II, clause one, which says that no member country shall impose quantitative restrictions on goods of other member countries.

This the United States is held to have done by announcing Monday that she will restrict imports of lead and zinc to 80 per cent of the average any country shipped in the five years 1953-1957.

Countries subscribing to GATT have all made concessions under it and are quick to protest anything that they may feel is a violation.

The American Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act — under which the U.S. said it made the restrictions—came up for renewal at the last session of Congress and for a time there was a distinct possibility that it wouldn't be re-enacted. It was renewed, however—much to the relief of other Western countries.

It is regarded in some circles as possible that concessions may have had to be made to some U.S.A., $15.00 per year; $7.50 for U.S.A.; $3.75 for 3 months; single copy sales price, 5 cents.

A concession to American lead and zinc producers may have been one of them, and some fear there may have been other concessions which haven't shown up yet.

The United States tariff commission found that the American industry has suffered injury from foreign imports, and President Eisenhower said Monday's action was taken to relieve "genuine distress."

He said the United States would seek a way "to share with exporting countries the burdens caused by the present condition of over-production."

For the present, however, producing countries feel that the American action has thrown the burden of solution on them.

Thirty Minutes By Missile From Moscow To New York

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — For nearly one year the United States has lived with the knowledge that it is only 30 minutes by missile from Moscow to New York.

One year ago, on Oct. 4, Russia launched its 184-pound Sputnik I and ushered in the age of space and the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

The initial reaction in the United States—comfortable, prosperous and convinced of its technological superiority—was stunned disbelief.

This was followed swiftly by alarm, concern, hysteria, panic. If the vocal reaction of politicians, scientists and military men is any indication, the United States was beset by a feeling of chagrin and even a touch of inferiority.

These emotions now seem to have disappeared.

A year has now passed since Sputnik I. If there is a grim determination to overtake the Russians, regardless of cost, in the missile and satellite field, or in producing scientists and engineers for the future, the record doesn't show it.

Five days after Sputnik I President Eisenhower was asked at a press conference if the U.S. trailed Russia in missile development.

The president replied, "I wish we were further ahead. . . I can't say I am dissatisfied. . ."

And that generally has been Eisenhower's position since. Sputnik I did goad the United States into taking some lasting steps.

It brought about a reorganization of defence headquarters to end inter-service bickering, cut red tape and strengthen command channels.

Missile production has been stepped up, chiefly through the addition of more workers. For instance, Douglas Aircraft had 5,140 engineers and production workers in 1957. It now has 10,596.

By and large, though, the defence effort still is on an eight-hour day.

WANT CITY'S CHARMS "We want the intellectual stimulation of city life, its fun and games," he said.

But planning director Denis Cole of Red Deer, Alta., warned Canadian communities against trying to become bigger.

"We should be patting ourselves on the back for having a certain charming intimacy and quiet way of living—it is something everybody is seeking."

Association Secretary N. Emms Read of Calgary argued this might be so but communities are bound to grow and their citizens would join big-city residents in becoming "just one of the herd."

Mrs. J. C. Jeslyn of Melfort, Sask., said it isn't a question of initiating large projects. "The object is to stop this higgly-dy one expressway after another to piggyback growth by proper planning."

OTTAWA REPORT

S-O-O- This Is The Arctic

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Specially Written for The Kelowna Daily Courier

Foxe Basin, N.W.T.: Four score years ago, our Fathers of Confederation named this country The Dominion of Canada. That name expressed their pious faith in the Biblical prediction that "His Dominion shall be from sea to sea and from the river even to the ends of the earth."

How near we have come to wrecking our fathers' faith in Canada's future. How dangerously we have concentrated on the river, and ignored the ends of the earth.

At this point, very near the geographical centre of our fathers' concept of Canada, we have jeopardised our sovereignty over our country.

There are two grounds upon which a nation may lay legitimate claim to any piece of real estate. One is by discovery or exploration; the other is by "effective occupation," which might follow either discovery, or conquest, or purchase.

Climatic reasons and lack of bodies have handicapped our duty and our wish to establish effective occupation of the Northland beyond our frontier of settlement.

This is especially true in the case of the islands between our mainland and the North Pole. So we have fallen back on the "sector theory" of land ownership. This maintains that a nation bordering the polar regions has the right to all land lying in the pie-slice area lying between the meridians of longitude marking its east and west borders, and projected until they meet at the pole.

OUR ESKIMO PIE Fifty years ago Canada put forward the sector theory. We claimed all the land between the northward projections of the 60th meridian, which passes through the eastern nose of Nova Scotia, and the 141st meridian, which marks the western bound of the Yukon.

This sector theory has no basis in international law. We have not only fumbled our sovereignty over the Arctic, but we have weakened our own sector theory.

For example, in 1902 the Norwegian explorer Otto Sverdrup discovered and claimed three islands in our sector of the Arctic, and named them the Heiberg and Ringnes islands. More than 20 years later, we paid Norway $20,000 for the restricted sovereignty over them, thus admitting that our claim to them under our Sector Theory was not adequate.

As recently as 1956, only 19-313 Canadians, of European or Indian or Eskimo stock, lived in the 1,305,000 square miles of the Northwest Territories. This token occupation was expanded by the long dog-sled patrols carried out by the RCMP. Such occupation might be interpreted as "effective" if it were coupled with outline mapping and charting of the coastal waters. But we had incomplete maps, and our charts are still excellent by Russian standards of our waters in some ways.

THE LOST ISLANDS Cabinet Ministers today still have maps of Canada dated 1947 hanging in their offices. These do not even show the existence of two islands in this centrally located stretch of sea called Foxe Basin, although their joint area is more than twice that of P.E.I.

These two islands, since named Prince Charles and Air Force, were first discovered accidentally by an RCAF pilot in 1948.

With those islands not even marked on government maps, we would have been in a very tricky position if, say, some Chinese, who are not concerned with the Sector Theory, had landed there and claimed ownership before 1948.

Within more recent years, large numbers of Americans, serving with the U.S. Air Force or working for contractors, have poured into our Arctic to set up and operate radar stations forming the Distant Early Warning or DEW line. Those Americans have begun to talk of "our Arctic". Canadians landing their aircraft there have been turned away by armed U.S. sentries and told to take off.

The situation had developed to the point where we had to assert our sovereignty positively, and quickly, or risk embarrassing international incidents.

I will describe in another column the exciting spectacle I have seen in our Arctic, and how the Diefenbaker government has recaptured our Arctic this summer with a fleet of World War Two invasion barges.

Grand Falls on the Hamilton River, Labrador, is considered the most powerful waterfall in North America with an electricity potential of 4,000,000 h.p.

Four years ago the Associated Credit Bureaus of B.C. held a parley here. This weekend, about 50 delegates from all parts of B.C. will again meet at Eldorado Arms for a four-day conference.

Parley will be presided over by Douglas Bibby, of Abbotsford, president of the association. Matters pertaining to consumer credit will be thoroughly discussed.

Several credit managers from large business houses will address the delegates. All business sessions will be held at the Eldorado. A local spokesman said delegates likely Kelowna so much that they decided to return here for this year's parley.

ADDRESSES LUNCHEON

B.C. Chamber Head Concerned Over "Power Without Responsibility"

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce movement is the broadest-based movement in Canada, and represents about 95 per cent of employers.

This point was emphasized by G. Fitzpatrick (Pat) Dunn, Victoria, president of the B.C. Chamber, when he addressed a board of trade luncheon meeting here Friday.

The luncheon, the second of such general meetings held by the local trade board, was largely attended by businessmen. Thirteen new board of trade members were introduced. This is in addition to 19 new members who were welcomed at the luncheon meeting held last month.

Mr. Dunn, who took over the presidential post last May, reviewed a brief which the B.C. Chamber recently presented to the provincial government. At the same time he paid tribute to W. B. Hughes-Games who is a member of the B.C. Chamber executive.

The government, Mr. Dunn said, is extremely concerned over employer-employee relations. The speaker said that while the Chamber of Commerce is often accused of being anti-labor, he himself is more concerned over "power without responsibility" of some union leaders. "I am convinced the pendulum is swinging the other way," he said, adding that labor has been exploited.

Mr. Dunn reviewed some of the suggested amendments to the labor act. Most of the recommendations dealt with disputes between employers and unions.

He emphasized the government appreciates assistance from recognized bodies, but is also looking for guidance from the average citizen. Mr. Dunn suggested that individuals should write the government outlining their views on certain questions. "These letters," he said, "would be appreciated by the government."

At the same time he pointed out that the government should be referred to as "our government," and not "the government."

Touching briefly on world trade, Mr. Dunn said that West Germany now has one quarter of the world's export market.

"They have made a fantastic recovery and face the fact they must export at competitive prices."

The speaker was introduced by C. E. R. Bazett and thanked by trade board president H. S. Harrison Smith.

He said this is the same problem faced by the board nearly every year. Some members fall behind in their dues and make no attempt to pay until they are personally contacted.

One member pointed out that it was sometimes a hardship for the smaller businessman to keep up his dues particularly if he belonged to one of more local service clubs. "But nevertheless," he said, "they should realize that the Board of Trade needs their support now, more than ever, and we hope that they will respond."

Unsafe Drinking, Bat Rabies Found

Unsatisfactory condition of the man, aged 65, at Okanagan drinking water in several localities, bats with rabies and inadequate school lighting highlighted the quarterly report of the medical director to the South Okanagan Union Board of Health.

The report was given at the quarterly meeting at Oliver recently.

Dr. D. A. Clarke, the medical health officer, and whose headquarters are in Kelowna, pointed out that the "need for safe water supplies continues to be the main sanitation problem" in the health unit area.

Tests of water (which is unchlorinated) at several localities were classified "unsatisfactory," with percentages positive running from 11.6 per cent to as high as 80 per cent.

Other localities listed as having unsatisfactory drinking water were Winfield, Black Mountain, East Kelowna, Kaleden, Naramata, Okanagan Falls, Penticton, East Bench, and wells from Kelowna to Oyma, also wells from Kaleden to Princeton.

During the period from Jan. 1 to July 31, tests also were carried out on chlorinated systems. Kelowna and Glenmore systems showed a 13 per cent positive (over 10 per cent is considered unsatisfactory) and this was blamed on the laying of new pipe as part of the waterworks system. The pipe was not sterilized.

Lakeview Heights also showed unsatisfactory (at 12.2 per cent), due to algae problems.

FOUR BITTEN — This is the first evidence to my knowledge that bats in the Okanagan may be carriers of rabies," Dr. Clarke reported, as he confirmed that during July and August, two boys, a girl, and a man were bitten by bats in the health unit area.

"Two of the three bats were infected with rabies," Dr. Clarke said, "and the four patients are undergoing, or have received, anti-rabies injections."

One boy was bitten at Okanagan Landing, another at Rutland. The girl was bitten at Princeton and During May, June and July, 1,300 infants and 2,200 pre-school children attended well child conferences in the unit, receiving 1,500 doses of triple vaccine, 1,725 doses of polio vaccine and 221 smallpox vaccinations.

As a result of several meetings, a homemaker service, similar to that in vogue in Kelowna for years, was to be started in Penticton this fall. (Since the report, work has progressed and the homemaker service was officially inaugurated this week.)

Milk quality from seven dairies in the health unit "all met the required standards." However, "one raw milk vendor has caused some concern due to poor milk counts." If the next milk sample fails to meet the milk standards, a charge will be laid against the dealer.

Several restaurants have improved their eating standards during the summer from "marginal" to satisfactory through remodeling and renovations. "Two have been asked to correct unsatisfactory health conditions and further action is pending."

Kelowna and Penticton hospitals have been designated as regional poison control centres, in addition to those already established at Vernon and Vancouver. A regional index will be kept at all valley hospitals for compilation of basic information for antidote and clinical treatment of patients by doctors in the Okanagan.

A mobile hearing clinic will visit the health unit area in the last week of October to assess all hard-of-hearing children. The clinic will set up in Kelowna and Penticton and will carry out hearing tests on children referred by their family doctors. The clinic is interested in children from one to five years of age.

Wash. Iron Ore To Be Shipped Via Rock Creek

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans to mine iron ore in Washington State and export it through a bulk loading terminal in Vancouver were made Friday when a mining deal was signed here.

The venture provides for Capt. W. McKay, president of Westcoast Stevedoring Co. of Vancouver and associates to lease a magnetite property six miles south of the Canada-United States border near Greenwood, B.C.

The property, owned by Magne Mines Inc. of Wenatchee, Wash., has been surveyed at a reserve of 18,000,000 tons of ore. Plans are to mine by open cut, to truck the ore to Rock Creek, B.C., on the Kettle Valley line and ship by rail to Vancouver.

The executive said further investigation of this possibility of the pension plan would cost $2,000, and this was not agreeable to delegates.

One of those opposed to a scheme was Mayor Carrie Jane Gray of Prince George, who said volunteer firemen were "little boys at heart—they love to go to a fire." These remarks prompted sharp criticism from other delegates.

Alderman George Miller of Vancouver was opposed on the grounds that as organized cities already pay for firefighting protection, any cost in investigating pension schemes would be "taxation without representation."

PREMIUMS PHOOEY!

Survey Shows Soap Coupons Unpopular With Canadians

CANADIAN PRESS — Do free gifts and coupons in packages of soap powder and detergent really persuade housewives to buy? Members of the Canadian Association of Consumers in Asbestos, Que., and Danville, Que., (joint population about 11,500) decided housewives don't like soap premiums and coupons and they conducted a survey to prove it. The September issue of the CAC Bulletin records their findings.

The survey showed an overwhelming objection to the practice of manufacturers putting premiums in soap packages," it reports.

EMPHATIC VERDICT — In answer to a question: "Do you prefer a package containing a premium?" 97 per cent answered "no," and added they definitely prefer packages containing only soap or detergent.

"Similarly with coupons," the Bulletin reports.

"The survey showed a strong distaste for inclusion of coupons in packages. About nine per cent said they buy products because they contain coupons, but more than 90 per cent objected to inclusion of coupons in packages. More than 86 per cent say they buy products which advertise '10 per cent off.'"

About 98 per cent said they would prefer a straight reduction in the price of packages of soaps and detergents rather than inclusion of coupons and other "come-on" sales devices.

Only branch members were surveyed. A questionnaire was drawn up, and then members of the Asbestos-Danville branch telephoned to find their reaction.

ZIPPER PROBLEMS — The CAC Bulletin also reports on troubles with zippers.

"A survey indicates that 80 per cent of us have zipper problems of some sort," says the Bulletin, "but only a negligible number make any complaint to the dealer who sold us the fastener or the article of which it was a part."

The CAC promises war on zippers, and urges this strategy on its members:

Buy the correct size and type of fastener for the job, and then apply it as directed by the manufacturer. Ask your retailer for assistance when shopping.

Buy a good quality fastener, and if it proves unsatisfactory, return it to the retailer and insist on a replacement.

If a ready-made garment has a zipper that won't work, return it to the retailer and ask him to refer the fault to the manufacturer, as well as replace the faulty zipper with a better one.

The CAC beats the drum for Canadian products: "There are Canadian brands of zippers which can match the qualities of much advertised American brands."

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Love-making Is Private Matter Engaged Pair Should Keep It So

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: — A soul-quality that instinctively proclaims itself in modest conduct—unless the soul has been coarsened and perverted by ingrained mis-education.—M.H.

YOUNG ROMANCE HITS A SNAG — DEAR MARY HAWORTH: — I have been going with Nick for almost four years, and last February I became "pinned" to him—engaged to be engaged.

We attend different colleges in different states, so our time together is limited to a few weeks in winter; and summer is our only season for companionship. But this past summer was a big disappointment.

It seems Nick had to do his parents' bidding every weekend, and he isn't taking me seriously.

Nick will be in Europe next summer, which means much separation the next two years. And I wonder if mother is right in advising me to date others, and not be taken for granted and disappointed so much by him?—B.B.

DON'T BOG DOWN INTO WAITING ROLE — DEAR B.B.: By the very nature of the case—which imposes so much separation on you and Nick in formative years—you ought to date other boys during the school season. And also next summer, when Nick will be in Europe.

Evidently marriage isn't in the cards for a long time, and anyway you aren't really engaged. You are simply experimenting with the idea. There is nothing conclusive about it. And to foster a right decision, you ought to keep on maturing as a social being, until the day arrives, for making up your mind.

Don't make a big issue of your disappointing summer. Just tell Nick you see him so little, summer and winter, that you'll have to date others occasionally, to keep from losing your knack of being human. And meanwhile, if he likes, you are happy to stay pinned to him. Using charming manners and your own words, give him that message, and if he exploits it as an excuse to break off, so be it. You won't have lost anything.—M.H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Daily Courier.

Women Win Over Men In Culinary Ability — PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP) — The idea that men are better cooks than women received a jolt from a man who should be in the know.

John E. Coles of Toronto, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, claims that women are the better cooks. But he made the statement with reservations.

Women take suggestions from men better than they do from female bosses, he said.

Mr. Coles, who does a lot of cooking around the house himself, said the biggest mistakes a man makes in cooking are in temperatures.

"Men don't seem to understand the importance of temperatures when they cook," he said. "They seem to overcook their foods in an effort to get the cooking done faster, and don't pay attention to such important items as flavoring and the use of good cooking products."

A Gallup survey recently asked people what one section or feature of their daily newspaper they found most useful. Advertising headed the list.

Will Indian Sari Replace Chemise?

By SYLVIA HACK Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A pocket-sized Indian princess plans to spend the next four months persuading Western women to adopt the sari for cocktail and evening wear.

Princess Shaktantula Sharma, 23, and barely five feet tall, is displaying 12 sari styles during her tour of London, New York, Toronto, Paris and Rome.

The princess, whose father, a steel magnate, relinquished his title on moving to Bombay 11 years ago when his home became part of the new state of Pakistan.

has 300 saris and matching handbags in her own wardrobe.

MANY LENGTHS

Although the full-length wrap-around garment has only one definite line, her London collection features it in varying lengths from six to 15 yards. The art of styling depends on the draping.

She appeared in a green and black sari and with a pink carnation tucked into her chignon hair-do for an interview in her West End hotel suite, especially adapted for her with Indian furniture and pictures.

The princess said there are no set rules for wearing saris. But she offered a bit of advice: "One should walk with more of a sway than when wearing Western clothes. The right movement comes once you start wearing it."

She advises wearing flat-heeled shoes to begin and later on switching to high heels. Ordinary foundation garments are worn with saris.

The princess is studying British women with an eye to their coloring, hair and movements, and will choose fabrics accordingly.

TALLNESS HELPS

"I think European women should be able to wear saris with great success," she says. "So many of them are tall and height is a great advantage where saris are concerned."

Famous in her own country as a cover girl and model, Princess Sharma first studied law for two years. She says her father wanted her to do so, so she followed his wishes, but found the subject "dry."

Five years ago she took up modelling and designing and has won many prizes for both.

Although Indian fashion houses do not follow the Western pattern by having two collections annually, they are starting "festivals" collections at such times as Christmas and "diwali," the festival of lights.

The princess plans to try wearing Western dress during her tour—but warns against one Western habit when wearing the sari—that is smoking. "It really doesn't go with a sari," she says.

OKANAGAN MISSION

OKANAGAN MISSION — Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Upton on Wednesday were Mr. Clifford Weeks and Mr. A. C. Dickson of Vanderhoof. In the days of fur trading in the Cariboo, Mr. Dickson's home just south of Vanderhoof, was the site of an important post. Again, in 1865-66 this post called "Nechako" gained prominence when the Collins Overland Telegraph line went through.

The post, as such, has not been used for years, but it is of interest that in the government census, the entire population of Nechako consists of Mr. and Mrs. Dickson and their two sons.

Mrs. A. M. Farris and Mrs. Ada Greening are visiting relatives near Edam and North Battleford, Sask. They will return home next week.

Mrs. H. C. S. Collett returned on Tuesday following a four-month visit spent in England and friends in London and Amsterdam, she spent two days there, going on to Soest, Germany, staying at the Canadian Officers Club. Lieut. Basil E. Collett of the Strathcona Horse is stationed there.

From Germany, Mrs. Collett went to England, visiting relatives and friends in London and Hove, Cornwall and Cumberland. Returning to Amsterdam, Holland, she flew from there to Canada. Lieut. Basil Collett is spending his leave in Italy next month.

Natural For Nurse To Rouse Male Ardor

WINNIPEG (CP) — Is it natural for a male patient to fall in love with his nurse? "Yes," says Christina MacLeod of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Women's Hospital Auxiliaries association.

Patients are thankful for the care and attention given and sometimes "show their appreciation with too much emotion," she said. "Many nurses have had ridiculous proposals of marriage."

How does a nurse handle these situations? Miss MacLeod, a nurse for more than 30 years, said the nurse must be tactful, but remember her professional training and dignity. A nurse's training prepares her "for all these things she is up against."

Miss MacLeod was asked during the interview if the nurse ever falls in love with her patient. She replied: "There are no more marriages between nurses and patients than there are between nurses and doctors or any other group with whom the nurse is in contact with a lot."

Miss MacLeod also said that nurses in children's wards must guard against the jealousy of a mother separated from her child for the first time.

The mother must be encouraged to realize that the care given by a nurse is for the patient's benefit, she said, and "kindness should never be misconstrued or resented."

Asked which patients—men or women—are more difficult to handle, Miss MacLeod said she has never noticed any difference.

Lutheran Women Told How Mission Money Utilized

TORONTO (CP) — United Lutheran Church women were told at the opening of their 17th triennial convention that they are giving nearly three-fourths of their $1,000,000-a-year budget to support the world-wide mission program of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Mrs. John B. Moore, Leesville, S.C., retiring president, formally opened the convention with an address to more than 1,500 delegates and visitors.

In its 46-year history, the president reported, the women's auxiliary has trained for overseas service 152 missionaries.

Women missionaries serve in British Guiana, Japan, Malaya, India and Liberia.

"There still is a need for those who will give their time and talents to full time service," Mrs. Moore said.

FASHIONABLE DRAPERY

By ALICE ALDEN In many of the newest and most outstanding afternoon and evening clothes, the skirt bears the burden of fashion interest. Oleg Casani takes note of this in a wrap-skirted short evening dress which he has fashioned of amber-colored silk satin. The slanted front panel rises to a high bosom line and is caught with a jewel-centered bow. The wrapped line makes a pleasing alternative to the more ebullient bubble skirt and harem hem.

SPORTLIGHT

It's All Yours, Dad - Except For The Vodka

By GEORGE INGLIS
(Courier Sports Editor)

The vodka you pay for, yourself. That's the way the deal reads, if you are going to take the long trip to Moscow with the Packers this November—you pay for your own vodka. However, just about everything else is taken care of, including sight-seeing trips in Sweden and Moscow, top-flight hotel accommodations on the European plan, and meeting and transfer service in Stockholm and Moscow.

For those of the Packer fans who make the trip and are able to con the little woman into believing that the trip is actually going to take a month, stonovers can be arranged along the route, or re-routings on the return journey if the heart desires, and the pocketbook permits.

In addition to the frigid "hot spots" of northern Europe and Russia, the return from Moscow will be via... hold it now, Dad! P-A-R-I-S! The travel agent is at pains to point out that the return portion of your ticket is valid for 12 months from date of issue, but if Paris is still the city we knew during the second great unpleasantness, you just won't last that long.

There are a few details of the trip still up in the air, but the itinerary is definite, and the arrival dates in Stockholm (Nov. 8) and Moscow (Nov. 13) are confirmed. The necessary items of interest, besides tooth brush, razor and extra socks, are:

- 1) A valid passport.
 - 2) A Russian visa.
 - 3) A smallpox vaccination certified on the official form.
- And, of course, permission from Mom.

HAL LAYCOE, COACH AND MANAGER OF THE ROYALS, from down New Westminster way, was talking lucidly about his club's chances for the season yesterday, when he was transfixed, his jaw dropping down to rest on his conservative tie.

When we realized we had lost him, and he had spent the better part of ten minutes strangling over his choler, we realized what was gripping the king-sized ex-NHL performer. It was a copy of a newspaper, carrying a story by Anglican Bishop A. H. Sovereign of Vernon, anent the fact that hockey games are no place to take children.

And Hal was not alone in his choler. The retired bishop of Athabasca, when he made this statement at a John Howard Society meeting in Penticton the other night, was actually stirring up a hornet's nest of protest from lovers of fair play all over the territory, whether in sports or in plain, everyday living.

Laycoe expressed their feelings: "Why can't people live and let live?"

And that was a pithy statement, indeed.

THERE IS LITTLE DOUBT THAT THE BISHOP had a basis for his statement. This corner, in the past, has deprecated the actions of certain individuals in certain instances, condemning the specific action as less than inspirational for youth.

But to roundly condemn the game for the action of these individuals is comparable to tarring every German with Hitler's brush or calling every Italian a Fascist, or saying that every sportswriter is a "homer." It just isn't fair.

To assume that the kids in the arena, who watch some psychopathic wielder of the hardwood alter his neighbor's cuffure, are going to be affected detrimentally, is a rather fatuous assessment of their powers of dissemination, in our opinion.

Out of all the acts of courage, unselfishness, fortitude, endurance, skill and daring that occur in the pursuit of Canada's top sport, the good bishop has picked on the isolated and unfortunate instances that are deprecated by the upright players and spectators alike, and used these incidents as his criterion of the conduct of the sport.

Believe us, the same type of criticism would make any business look bad, even the business the bishop is in.

ODDS AND SODS DEPARTMENT—JOHNNY UTENDALE and BOB HARTPEL, members of last year's V's were familiar faces in the line-up of the New Westminster Royals, working out in the arena this fortnight.

HAL LAYCOE, very happy about his Royals this year, has got himself a real "policeman" this year, in the form (and it's a big one) of GEORGE McAVOY, former captain of the world-champion V's. Hal says the club looks better than it has in his three-year reign at the reins.

There was an air of mystery about the PACKERS' closed-door workout last night, but the Irish, coach JACK O'REILLY, knows what he is doing. With a minimum of time to whip his club into shape, separate the wheat from the chaff, he can't have distracting blondes (and some brunettes) leaning over the boards, distracting his boys from the job.

But you can have an eye-full next Wednesday.

P.S. DON'T FORGET YOUR SEASON TICKETS.

FRIDAY'S STARS

Hitting: Al Dark, Chicago Cubs — Was 3-for-10 in a two-night doubleheader against Los Angeles Dodgers, singling home the winning run in the nightcap ninth for a 2-1 decision after hitting a home run, triple and single in a 6-3 first game defeat.

Pitching: Harry Latman, Chicago White Sox — Rookie right-hander gave up only three singles, walked two and struck out nine for a 1-0 victory over Kansas City in his first complete game.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Leo Durocher picks Milwaukee Braves to win the world series.

The former major league manager turned radio-television executive said Friday the Braves have too much pitching, power and all-around strength for New York Yankees.

NEW YORK (AP) — Who will Casey Stengel snort Friday night, the opening game of the night, "I may announce it Monday." It's lucky this isn't a military secret because it would be the worst-kept of all time.

Whitney Ford, the man who won the first game of last year's series for the Yanks, the man who shows a 2.01 earned run average, lowest in the majors, the man who boasts a .261 career average of any active pitcher, will be on the mound for the Yanks when they open the series against the Braves in Milwaukee next Wednesday.

All Milwaukee Tickets Sold

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves announced Friday that all tickets for the four 1958 world series games at County Stadium have been sold. The sell-out covers 44,668 seats and 2,500 standing room tickets for each game.

Whitney gave up one hit in six innings—Joe Taylor's inside-the-park homer in the first—struck out six men and retired 16 in a row. He is ready.

Williams, Runnels Tied For AL Batting Honors

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two days to go and it's Ted Williams and Boston teammate Pete Runnels deadlocked for the American League batting lead at .322.

Williams, shooting for his sixth title of 40, took the lead in the first game of a two-night doubleheader at Washington Friday night. But when he sat out the nightcap, Runnels came scrapping back as the Red Sox took third place with a 6-4 and 3-1 sweep.

Elsewhere, Whitney Ford gave up only one hit—Joe Taylor's inside-the-park homer in the first—retiring at the end of six innings as the Yankees lost 3-2 to Baltimore.

Cleveland defeated Detroit 5-4 and the Chicago White Sox beat Kansas City 1-0 on rookie Barry Latman's three-hitter in the other AL games.

WILLIAMS HOMERS

Williams, who hasn't played two games in one day all year, wallowed his 24th home run and a single in three at bats in the opener. Runnels was 2-for-5 in the nightcap.

Willie Mays couldn't do anything but hit against St. Louis pitching last weekend and took the National League batting lead from Richie Ashburn, who couldn't do a thing against Pittsburgh.

Now Ashburn's back on top, after hitting 2-for-4 against Pirate pitching Friday night while Mays went hitless against the Cardinals.

Ashburn scored the winning run as Philadelphia defeated 22-game winner Bob Friend 3-2 and gained a point for a .344 average. Mays lost two points for a .341 average, as San Francisco beat St. Louis 4-3.

Mays and Ashburn each have two games remaining.

BURDETTE'S 20TH

Low Burdette became a 20-game winner for the first time in his final tuneup for the world series as the champion Milwaukee Braves beat Cincinnati 2-1.

Los Angeles and Chicago Cubs remained tied for sixth, splitting a two-night pair. The Dodgers won 6-3, then lost 2-1.

Britain Will Not Give Up Cup Hopes

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The lumpy old America's Cup will stay in its glass case in a room above the bar of the New York Yacht Club.

Any faint hopes that it would go to Britain sank Friday in the bubbling wake of the United States' cup defender Columbia.

The powerhouse American 12-metre yacht clinched the cup with her fourth straight victory over the British challenger Sceptre, which sailed almost half the race with a crippled rig. Her thick aluminum alloy boom had snapped in two in a freak accident when a splinter sheet got caught under it.

The British said the things they have been saying since 1851 after 17 fruitless attempts to wrench the cup free from the U.S.

WILL TRY AGAIN

"I quite frankly don't think we shall ever give up trying for the cup," said Hugh Goodson, a member of the syndicate that owns Sceptre. But he added that he wants time to think over whether his group from the Royal Yacht Squadron will challenge again.

"It's not something you answer in five minutes," he said. "There can be no challenge race for another two years by the deed of gift of the cup."

Canuck Player Pulls Muscle

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Wingman Don Carter, 22, pulled a groin muscle Friday to become the Vancouver Canucks' first pre-season casualty at the Western Hockey League team's training camp here.

The former Springfield star is expected to be back in action either today or Sunday.

An early exhibition game scheduled for yesterday against New Westminster Royals, training in Kelowna, was cancelled. Royals' coach Hal Laycoe hopes to have the game re-scheduled for next Saturday.

MISSILE TO REPLACE AVRO'S ARROW

Instead of the Arrow, Canada's greatest effort in aircraft production, a U.S. ballistic missile will be the mainstay of our aerial defence. The missile, the Bomarc, shown right in flight and above on display in New York, has a range of 200 miles, a speed of 1,500 mph and can climb to 60,000 feet. It is controlled from the ground and can be equipped with conventional or nuclear warheads. In the next three years Canada will spend $264,000,000 in developing missile sites. Work on the Arrow will continue at the A. V. Roe plant in Malton, Ont., but it is not planned to manufacture enough to equip squadrons for Canadian defence.

Yellow Fever Found Four Air Hours Away

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

There are many serious diseases which we don't hear much about any more. Yet, they still are lurking around, just waiting for us to lower our guard.

Some time ago, I advised you that the plague was still potentially a serious threat in certain countries. Public health officials, however, are constantly taking routine precautions which prevent it from getting out of hand and becoming a menace in our country.

YELLOW FEVER
The same is true of yellow jack, or yellow fever. Once it took countless lives. Today, we seldom hear anything about it. But the Aedes aegypti, that is the yellow fever mosquito, still exists. He is a great deal closer than you think.

While we have had virtually no cases of yellow fever in the United States in the last two generations, public health officials generally consider this disease is one of the most explosive health threats presently hanging over our nation.

The yellow fever mosquito you see, abounds in many cities in the southern third of the United States. They do not transmit the disease because there are no yellow fever victims for them to feed upon. However, a case of yellow fever mosquito in the South from a yellow fever area could touch off an epidemic.

FOUR HOURS AWAY
Yellow fever can be found in areas less than four hours by plane from the United States. As far back as 1932, it looked as though the once dreaded disease was on the verge of extinction in the Americas. There was only a single small area in Brazil where the disease still existed. Suddenly, the disease broke out in the rural areas of Brazil!

Health authorities were puzzled because the Aedes aegypti is strictly an urban type of mosquito. Investigators then discovered a jungle form of yellow fever which was transmitted by jungle varieties of mosquitoes. Under favorable circumstances this was transmitted into the usual form of yellow jack.

UNSUCCESSFUL EFFORTS
Thus far efforts to eliminate the jungle mosquitoes or the birds and monkeys, which serve as the jungle fever reservoir, have been unsuccessful. In fact, the jungle disease has spread steadily northward.

In 1950, it jumped the Panama Canal. Last year it reached the end of the tropical jungle in southern Mexico. Once it reached Port of Spain, Trinidad, and once into Caracas, Venezuela. Outbreaks in both cities were caught early.

Health authorities say we should clean up the Aedes aegypti in the South and strengthen our vaccine defenses with our yellow fever vaccine.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. Is a gallbladder operation in a 70-year-old person considered more hazardous than in a younger person?
A. Because of the tremendous strides that have been made in anesthesia and surgery, the risk in a gallbladder operation, at a rule, is no greater in an older person than would be involved in carrying out the same procedure in a younger person.

Opening lead—ten of hearts. Some hands lend themselves much more readily to error than others. The reason usually is that the gimmick, if there is one, lies concealed beneath the surface.

West opens a heart and South wins with the ace. The hand looks like a clutch make, so declarer starts to run his diamonds. He leads the ace and then the king, but when West shows out, South finds he is in trouble.

What looked like nine or ten easy tricks all of a sudden changes to only eight tricks. And what is worse, South now can't do anything about it. He winds up taking eight tricks for down one.

But what should he have done, and how should he have viewed the hand from the start? As soon as dummy comes down South can see eight sure tricks. And the only reasonable place to look for a ninth trick must be in diamonds.

The game trick is sure to come from that suit if the adverse diamonds are divided 3-3 or 4-2. If either division exists the contract automatically makes.

But what if the diamonds are divided 5-1? Then the contract is not sure to make unless the first lead drops a singleton ten or jack. So declarer leads the ace and, in the actual deal, the ace and opponents follow low.

Mindful that the contract cannot be defeated if the diamonds break 3-3 or 4-2, declarer now prepares for a 5-1 division. If East has the five diamonds, South can still deal with the situation.

He therefore leads a spade to the ace and returns a diamond. If East follows low South plays the eight with absolute assurance the contract is made. If the eight wins, it is trick number nine; if it loses, the nine of diamonds becomes trick number nine.

The big point in this deal is the attitude of mind declarer has when dummy first comes down. He should assume the worst possible break, and then prepare against it by any means at his command.

Automation Blamed For Unemployment

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer
VANCOUVER (CP) — The biggest union in the country has urged federal government steps to fight unemployment on various fronts, particularly the automation front.

This was the main theme reflected in debate at the five-day convention of the 35,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers. The name is a new one—changed from the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other Transport Workers in line with the union's plan to branch out outside the transport field.

At its closing session Friday night, delegates endorsed resolutions calling for government action to "strike effectively at the root causes of unemployment." They called for more public works, imposition of excess profit and capital gains taxes to finance them, national legislation for "adequate minimum wages" and stepped up foreign trade.

SHORTEN WORK HOURS

Earlier the convention urged federal creation of an advisory committee of labor, management and government to study the unemployment problems created by the machine age. It urged this committee to give serious consideration to shortening the hours of work as one solution.

President William Smith, 54-year-old one-time engine wiper who was re-elected for his second three-year term as $12,000-a-year head of the organization, warned that unless the government and railways can guarantee security of employment in the face of automation, then the big union would go all out for the short work week.

But a Winnipeg division motion to reduce the work week to four days for a 30-hour week failed to win convention support, though a Winnipeg motion for a "shorter work week" in any new contracts was approved.

The convention, pushing through scores of resolutions in its final hours, demanded federal action to ensure availability of funds for "an adequate national housing program," called for continuation of publicly-owned transportation and communication—like the CNR and the CBC—in Canada and took a swipe at the Diefenbaker government's labor policy.

UNANIMOUS VOTE

By a unanimous standing vote—an unusual procedure at convention sessions—the union strongly opposed compulsory arbitration and expressed regret that the federal government had "departed from its pre-election policy of opposition to compulsory arbitration."

Seven prisoners have escaped from Oakalla in the last month. Five of them are still at large.

Coldwell Will Visit India

EDMONTON (CP) — CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, appointed chairman of a United Nations technical assistance mission to India, says the job of the mission will be mainly one of evaluation of work already under way in community development in that country.

CCF headquarters in Ottawa announced Friday that Mr. Coldwell had received the appointment.

In Edmonton to address a meeting of the Canadian Club, Mr. Coldwell said today he will fly to New Delhi at the end of November and will return about March 1, 1959.

He said the mission, which he expects to involve three or four others besides himself, will study such things as planning local government and the facilities that come under jurisdiction of local governments. It will examine projects already undertaken under the UN technical assistance plans with a view to making a report on their value and suggestions for improvement.

The 69-year-old CCF party leader, whose health has been a matter of concern in the past, said he received an offer of the UN appointment last August and after careful consideration had decided to accept it. A UN-appointed doctor had given him a "clean bill of health," he said.

THREE NIGHTS

Open House Will Mark CHBC-TV First Anniversary Next Week

CHBC-Television marks its first anniversary on Sunday, for on that day one year ago Okanagan Television aired its first full day of television programming.

The past year has been a time of growth and change and continued progress, as both live and filmed programs improved in quality and variety.

From rather sparse beginnings, when the majority of programs were "industrial" and travelogues, CHBC-TV's schedule has steadily grown to the point where the station now carries a large number of the nation's top television shows.

In the months that lie ahead, many more outstanding shows will be televised including Disneyland, The Danny Thomas Show, Cannonball, Desilu Playhouse, The Unforseen, Kraft Mystery Theatre, Bat Masterson, Tales of Wells Fargo, and many more, plus most of the shows you enjoyed last season.

Besides these top network shows, the management of Okanagan Television will be buying special syndicated programs to provide even more enjoyment for viewers.

Everything is being done to make CHBC-TV the equal of any private station in Canada to assure valley viewers the finest television entertainment possible.

APPROPRIATE COMMENTS
Roy G. Chapman, CHBC-TV managing director, commented: "We always appreciate viewers' comments on our programs, for only in this way can we be sure of audience reaction to any particular show."

"We appreciate our viewers' forbearance when minor or major technical difficulties arise. Television equipment is so very complex that troubles are bound to occur from time to time. But our excellent engineering staff of Tom Wyatt, Borge Haagenen and Ken Veale are on the job in a matter of moments to assure that most delays are only minor ones."

To celebrate their first anniversary, the management and staff will hold an "Open House" for the public on October 1, 2 and 3.

This will provide Valley residents an excellent opportunity to see how live programs are staged and how filmed programs are telecast.

To better accommodate the public, it was decided to set aside one night for each of the three Valley areas.

Penticton Night, for residents of Penticton and districts, will be held Wednesday, October 1.

Vernon Night, for residents of Vernon and districts, will be held Thursday, October 2.

Kelowna Night, for residents of Kelowna and districts, will be held Friday, October 3.

Hours for Open House will be from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. on each evening.

Those wishing to see the live studio productions in progress must be seated in the studio by 6:15 p.m.

An estimated 86,000 full-time students were in attendance at Canadian Universities and Colleges at Dec. 1, 1957, an increase of 11 per cent over 1956.

Television Week To Be Observed

With the observance of Canadian Television Week, September 28 to October 4, the television industry, in which CHBC-TV plays an important role, will place its story before the Canadian people.

It is a story of phenomenal growth and development, a record of achievement unsurpassed anywhere in the world. From two stations in September, 1952, serving a handful of homes, to nearly fifty stations whose programs are received by over three million households every day.

From its inception, the Canadian television industry has provided its audience with the finest entertainment possible and performed a vital task in keeping Canadian in all walks of life informed on the latest developments in local, national and international quarters.

TIMES SAYS U.S. POLICY OPPOSED

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today that public mail on the Quemoy situation is running heavily against the administration's decision to help the Chinese Nationalists retain the offshore islands.

A Washington dispatch by E. W. Kenworthy says about 80 per cent of the mail directly criticizes the administration's policy, or expresses fear that the policy will lead to war. The rest praises President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles "for standing up to the Communists."

LARGE CONVOY REACHES QUEMOY

QUEMOY (AP) — The biggest and most successful Chinese Nationalist convoy of the offshore war reached Quemoy today with supplies for the besieged island.

The Nationalists did not announce immediately the extent of the latest supply mission to push through Communist shellfire.

Today's supplies came in 59 landing craft. They carried a possible maximum of 177 tons of supplies. It has been estimated the 80,000- to 100,000-man Quemoy garrison needs 350 tons daily to stay at peak combat capability.
